

TULSA DAILY WORLD

FINAL EDITION

VOL. XV, NO. 244

TULSA, OKLAHOM

14 PAGES

PRICE 6 CENTS

DEATH DECATIMATED AT 100; CITY QUIET

$2,000 TO START FUND FOR RELIEF

The World to Accept Contributions to Relieve Negro Sufferers

WIPE OUT STAIN

By Generosity Can Tulsa People Remove Black Flot of Blood and Fire

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET

Efforts of Rebuilding District to Be Taken Up at Meeting Probably Today

The World's Relief Fund

The relief fund for the victims of the Tulsa race riot is being organized by the World's Relief Fund.

White Injured

The wounded now in the hospital are the victims of the Tulsa race riot.

Homeless Negroes Gladly Accept Guards

Many Refugees Lured Their Belongings With Them Through Broiling Heat

A SCENE OF PATHOS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

ALL FED BY RELIEF GROUPS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

NEGROES GLADLY ACCEPT GUARDS

Homeless Negroes Gladly Accept Guards Many Refugees Lured Their Belongings With Them Through Broiling Heat

A SCENE OF PATHOS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

ALL FED BY RELIEF GROUPS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

White Injured

The wounded now in the hospital are the victims of the Tulsa race riot.

Homeless Negroes Gladly Accept Guards

Many Refugees Lured Their Belongings With Them Through Broiling Heat

A SCENE OF PATHOS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

ALL FED BY RELIEF GROUPS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

White Injured

The wounded now in the hospital are the victims of the Tulsa race riot.

In the Wake of Tulsa's Race War

The best seen remains, charred on a destroyed area after the riot.

Food being moved over to the homeless, at McNulty park by relief workers.

5,000 NEGRO REFUGEES GUARDED IN CAMP AT COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

Troops Patrolling Streets and General Barrett Declares Situation is Well Under Control; Every Precaution Taken to Prevent Recurrence of Trouble; Many Negroes Ask to Be Taken to Places of Safety; "Little Africa" Smoking Ruins.

With martial law in force, forbidding the indiscriminate use of the streets to vehicles and pedestrians until 8 o'clock Thursday morning, with 5,000 negro refugees confined in the buildings at the county fair grounds east of the city, with "Little Africa" in ashes, and with Adjt. Gen. Charles C. Barrett here in command of seven companies of national guardsmen, Tulsa is comparatively quiet after a night and part of a day of race rioting.

VIVID CONTRAST IN TWO NIGHTS

City Quiet as a Tomb as Soldiers Control Under Martial Law

The city of Tulsa is a vivid contrast in two nights. Thursday morning, the city was a scene of chaos and destruction.

White Injured

The wounded now in the hospital are the victims of the Tulsa race riot.

Homeless Negroes Gladly Accept Guards

Many Refugees Lured Their Belongings With Them Through Broiling Heat

A SCENE OF PATHOS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others

ALL FED BY RELIEF GROUPS

Great Boxes of Food Carried to McNulty Park by Red Cross and Others